

We do have the advantages of our form of Government over smaller countries. We can discuss, argue and fight over what we want passed in laws. Because we can produce anything we need at anytime. While they must have things when they need it.

For the negro rights. They have always had their rights but have never had no duties. Yes, they have been scared from voting but only a few at that. They have proven this, since the Government has forced them to register there has been only a small number of them cast votes.

They may still tell you they are afraid to vote but they have the same reason that thirty percent of the white race have. Only difference is the whites will tell you the truth. The negro still has no duties. He does as he pleases to do. Law means nothing to him. Only something to run to with a pack of lies concerning the white race.

The law compels you to hire the negro, but you cannot fire him and it is but a small number of them that will do any work.

So then the white man has got to work harder or the company will go broke and all will be out of work.

Talk of discrimination. Who is discriminated against? The negroes do as they wish on all matters and occasions.

Think of all the destruction they have caused. Watts for an example. They burned, looted and stole millions of dollars worth of property. I believe some were locked up, just long enough to get things under control. But I never heard of one paying a fine. Can the white race get by with this? No, and you all know that.

Some say this was caused by them living in the slums, then I say who made the place a slum? Anyplace you let them live will soon be another slum.

You may build them all new homes but it will not take long until no one could believe it to be the same place. I do not believe any white man hates the negro race. They do not like being made to associate with them, and I do not believe the negro likes it a bit themselves.

I remember my first trip down south, went as far as Miami. The weather was so hot you had to drive or stay inside a motel.
